Our impact in Missouri starts with direct engagement in local communities:

Bank of America Supports Women Entrepreneurs

Since 2014, Bank of America has deployed more than $46 million in capital to help women entrepreneurs grow their businesses, including women in St. Louis. In 2019, Bank of America increased this commitment to $100 million to aid women entrepreneurs. The capital it deploys will help more than 2,500 women small business owners. Learn More

Citi Works to Reduce Unemployment in Independence

In March 2019, the Citi Foundation and the Local Initiatives Support Corporation announced funding to help connect unemployed and underemployed people in Independence, Mo., to quality jobs. Services include skills training and career development, personal finance coaching, continuing education courses, and resources to help job seekers secure transportation, child care, and housing.
